Someone Passed By

Savita Singh

Whoever she was
Did not stop by
Walked quickly as if dictated by the wind
There was strange speed in her feet
Visible only to the most alert

Whoever she was
She did puzzle me
For as she passed by suddenly the sky turned green
And maple leaves utterly crimson

And then yellow...