Classroom v/s Virtual Room

V. Sabarinathan

Assistant Professor of English,
Loyola College - Mettala.

Zoom app: zooming out listeners,
Zoom in the resource person.
Participant of kanyakumari will listen,
Resource person of Jammu and Kashmir
Physical conference succeeded if it has 500 listeners,
Virtual webinars double the number.
More than a pleasure it's pressure for speaker,
It's a lot of ease and leisure for the listeners.

We mute our Audio to hear the speaker better.
We disable video to reduce network traffic.
Slides are shared doubts are cleared,
Technical errors creates more chaos.
But 'clarity born out of confusions and collisions'

The hands that hold chalk then, hold mic and mobile now.
The eyes that see various faces, now see only his screen.
The mouth that ask question, now posting it in chat box
There was a panoptic centre in classroom,
Now we confined in bed or living room

In classroom: ask excuse and enter,
In a virtual room: whomever can enter and exist.
In class, raise your hands and ask anything
Here, unmute your mic and talk, says the host.
Then the students were asked to keep calm
Now the teacher is asking, am I audible?

"Meet me in the Department" says teacher
"Mute your audio and video" says the host

Students then waited for the bell to Ring
Now the listeners waiting for the feedback link
No cost to spend, lot more to gain,
Webinars shower the knowledge rain.
